A GREAT BANK FAILURE.

THE FIDELITY NATIONAL AT CINCIN-NATI CLOSES ITS DOORS.

Speculation in the Chicago Wheat Deal the Cause of the Suspension—Great Excitement on the Street—E. L. Harper, the Cashier, Makes an Assignment.

CINCINNATI, O., June 22.—The protracted series of rumors of difficulty in the Fidelity National bank, of this city, came into definite shape at 9 a. m., when the massive doors of that financial institution on Fourth street, failed to open as usual. Rumors that E. L.
Harper, the mainspring of the concern, had offered to resign, and that he had been asked to resign, were about equal, and when a few minutes after 9 o'clock the doors still remained closed, a crowd began to gather and intense excitement prevailed. The fact soon dawned upon the minds of all that the new Fidelity had suspended.

The excitement continued to grow, and the crowd increased, until a posse of police arrived on the scene, and compelled all to move on, and repelled the more excited from the doors. No one was admitted, not even newspaper men and financial agents. Those who did not heed the sign, "Visitors to safe deposit admitted as usual," were forcibly expelled from the bank. United States Marshal Urner soon arrived and the examiner of banks, a United States officer, later arrived from Washington.

Later on John R. DeCamp, vice president of the Metropolitan bank, was appointed receiver of the Fidelity.

All that can be gathered of the Fidelity bank closing is from the outside. Depositors and all others are denied information. The president and assistant cashier affirm that depositors will get dollar for dollar, but many appear to doubt that affairs will turn out quite so well. It is very certain that the stockholders will suffer heavy loss.

Various causes have been assigned for the suspension at this time. Upon excellent authority it is learned that G. M. Jordan, a government examiner, was making the rounds of the local National banks last week and by accident, or prompted by the rumors and universal uneasiness felt in relation to the Fidelity, began an examination of the affairs of that concern last Friday evening.

Last night the examination had reached such a point that the examiner, for reasons which he discovered in the transactions of the concern, it is said, reflecting upon certain bank officials in their connection with the great Chicago wheat deal, notified these concerned that after last night the vice president, E. L. Harper, and the two cashiers, Amos Baldwin and Ben. E. Hopkins must resign their official positions. The order from the examiner, being peremptory, backed as he is by governmental authority in securing government money in the institution, was obeyed, and Messrs. Harper, Baldwin and Hopkins did not take their usual stations behind the gilded railings in the bank room this morning. Therefore the doors did not swing upon their hinges in obedience to the anxious creditors at the hour of 9.

The officials of the bank are Briggs Swift, president; E. L. Harper, vice president; Amos Baldwin, cashier, and Ben. E. Hopkins, assistant cashier. Its place of business is No. 27 West Fourth street, in the Emery's St. Paul building. It is the finest bank building in the city, and has recently been doing the highest bank business. Its history is short. The Safe Deposit & Trust company was organized about four years ago with Julius Dexter at its head. The stockholders, some of them, were dissatisfied with the business, and about a year ago the stock of the concern was quoted at about 60. At that time the old fight in the Third National bank, originating in the Handy wheat deal, culminated in a split. One party went out of the Third National and took up the Fidelity and converted it into the Fidelity National bank. The new concern was boomed, and straightway stock in the new institution sprang up to considerably over 100. Its stock has for a long time been in demand at prices ranging up to 167. It was offered late last week at 148, but nobody wanted it; its rumored connection with the Chicago wheat deal had hurt its reputation.
The Fidelity, in booming things, offered inducements none of the other banks did or could offer. For instance, while other banks gave 2 per cent. to country banks depositing there, the Fidelity gave 3 1/2. The latter, too, charged nothing for collections.

Another Heavy Failure.

CINCINNATI, June 22.—Following on and as a part of the failure of the Fidelity National bank came the assignment of the enormous iron business of E. L. Harper & Co. to Eugene Zimmerman. E. L. Harper & Co. controlled perhaps the greatest iron interests west of the Alleghenies. This includes the Riverside rolling mill, at Cullum Station, Riverside, and the extensive works in Newport, Ky., employing thousands of men.

Mr. Harper, the vice president of the bank, makes an individual assignment of his entire property, giving up everything to his creditors. He is a ruined man. Everything he possesses has been turned over to his creditors.

Mr. Harper has transferred twenty-two lots to the Fidelity bank, and a half interest in two others. However, he cannot pay what he owes the bank in this way. According to all accounts that is a hopeless debt.

Joseph W. Wilshire transferred to E. L.
Harper a great deal of real estate situated in different parts of the city on prominent streets.

This, no doubt, was done to secure the bank from any failure on the part of the grator to pay $1,000,000, which he, Wilshire, is alleged to have borrowed without the directors' consent and conveyed to Chicago for the late wheat deal.

Joseph Wilshire has also gone up. He has transferred his property to Mr. Harper, who in turn transfers everything to his creditors.

Resigned to Enter the Ministry.

MADISON, Ind., June 22.—Rev. Lewis G.
Adkinson to-day resigned the presidency of Moore's Hill college to re-enter the ministry.

LAKE DISASTER.

Eight Lives Lost By the Sinking of a Steam Barge.

CLEVELAND, O., June 22.—A terrible accident occurred on Lake Erie last evening, in which eight human souls went down to death without a moment's warning. The steam barge, P. H. Walter, loaded with stone at Marblehead, started for Cleveland yesterday afternoon, having on board the captain, J. G. Gillespie; J. M. Elora, mate; an engineer, fireman, two deck hands and a cook, and Captain Gillespie's wife and four children. About 7 o'clock after the boat had got well started on her trip, a heavy squall struck the barge and capsized her before any precautions could be taken, filling her from the hatches, and the result was that the water rushed down the hatches and filled the barge while some of the crew were resting below. The boat went down with twelve persons aboard, and out of this number but four were saved. The names of those lost are Mrs. Gillespie and two children, the engineer and fireman, Peter Pauley and Gus Shafer, deck hands, and Mrs. Pauley, cook.

The captain and his two children and J.
H. Elora, the mate, were saved by catching onto the hatches as they floated by, and from which a raft was constructed. All during the night the four persons floated about and this morning about 4 o'clock the steamer Pearl, on her way to Cleveland, picked them up and brought them to this city.

Capt. Gillespie said to a reporter: "I can't say what caused the boat to capsize unless it was a cyclone. We had no idea there was going to be a blow of this kind. We saved nothing, not even our clothing, from the wreck. My wife and children were aboard for a pleasure trip. The boat went down and nothing can be seen of her, not even the masts."

The captain's home is at Port Clinton, O.
The ill-fated barge was built at Sandusky in 1872 and rebuilt in 1880. Her tonnage was 102 tons and she was graded at 00.

RAHWAY MURDER.

Kasper Stumbrecht Relieved to Be a Crack, and Not the Perpetrator.

SALEM, Ill., June 22.—Mr. John Keron, chief of the New Jersey Detective association of Elizabeth, N. J., arrived here yesterday evening on the 4:30 train from New York, and immediately proceeded to the Park hotel, where a reporter called on him, and had an interview in reference to the Rahway murder mystery. He said he knew nothing of interest as yet to give to the public, but that he came to examine into the arrest of the man Kasper Stumbrecht. He had two lengthy talks with the prisoner, occupied almost all the day and evening.

He stated, to use his own words, "That man Kasper is an object of pity." Mr. Keron's opinion is that Kasper became intoxicated at a birthday party in New York, and, while in such a condition, visited the museum, and there saw on exhibition the war representation of the murdered girl, and that he got it into his head that he was the person that committed the crime. He seems to know very little about the place, and all the stories he has been telling were contradicted by the detective. He still claims that he was the person who committed the crime. Keron says he is undoubtedly a confirmed crack, as he wants to die.
He called for a revolver yesterday, and said he wanted to kill himself. He has no desire to go back to New York to see his friends, or to the old country. Mr. Keron, after a rigid examination, returned to New Jersey yesterday evening, thoroughly convinced that Kasper Stumbrecht was not the mur-derer of the unknown girl near Rahway on March 23.

A Child's Fearful Fall.

CINCINNATI, June 22.—A terrible accident occurred at the Eighteenth district school building, on Hopple street, Camp Washington, at 8:30 a. m., in the presence of a large number of school children. Janitor Stimle, his wife and three-year-old child, Harry, occupy apartments in the basement of the school building. This morning, while the parents were engaged in cleaning up the fourth floor, the child climbed up into a window on that floor, and a moment later had lost its balance and fell sixty feet to the paved pavement below. The little form was picked up a mass of broken bones and mangled flesh, dead. The horror-stricken school children screamed in terror, and by the time the grief-stricken parents reached the yard kind hands had tenderly lifted the corpse from the hard bricks and placed in on the little couch the baby had slept on last night.
The coroner was notified and will hold an inquest.

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 22.—The thirteenth imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine for the Western Hemisphere is in session.
Representatives are here from Chicago, New York, Cedar Rapids, Cleveland, Boston, Wheeling, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Washington, Brooklyn, Utica, New Brunswick, Louisville and Cincinnati. This order is a graft of Masonry.

Soloto County Republicans.

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 22.—The Soloto County Republican convention was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning at Wilhelm's opera house. Usually county conventions here have no large attendance, but this one was surely paying. The preliminaries disposed with, the convention adjourned till 2 p. m. The leading fights are being made for the nomination of representative and county treasurer.

Supreme Senate, National Union.

FRANKFORT, O., June 22.—The sixth annual session of the Supreme Senate of the National Union opened here this morning, under the Presidency of Hon. Frank Greager, and with delegates present from a large number of states. The annual report showed that the organization was in a flourishing condition and that its numbers had been largely increased during the year.

Patriotic Sons of America.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The annual National convention of the Patriotic Sons of America opened this morning with delegates present from nearly every state and territory. The convention will be in secret session for three days, and a public reception will be given to the delegates at Furwell Hall.

JUBILEE DAY IN LONDON.

ALL ENGLAND DOES HONOR TO THE GREAT EVENT.

The Queen Takes Part in the Royal Processions in an Open Carriage—She Receives a Continuous Ovation From the Palace Gates to the Abbey.

THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND.

LONDON, June 22.—Jubilee day dawned bright and clear. The sun shone brightly and a cool breeze tempered its rays. The city presented a sight such as never met the eye of any man in the present generation of Londoners. The crowds were unparalleled.
All night long hundreds of thousands of people, who, by reason of the crowding to suffocation of the hotels and lodging houses had nowhere to lay their heads, tramped in endless procession through the streets.
Others armed with camp stools and lunch-baskets hooted themselves to out-of-the-way places and prepared to make the best of it until the morning dawned.

At an early hour the police details were trodden in strength, and Westminster abbey, which had been closely guarded during the night, was surrounded by the police and military, who kept the crowd at a respectful distance. From early in the evening until daybreak carriages and equipages of every description crowded with occupants were driven toward the West End. At 5 o'clock every point of vantage from which to obtain a view of the royal procession was occupied, and at 9 o'clock the crowd along the line of march was one compact mass of people, wedged in and crowded in a most indescribable way. The people were very good natured, however, and took the jamming and crushing as a matter of course.

Detachments of police were sent out to clear the roadways of the streets and accomplished the task with great difficulty. The people tried in every manner to aid the officers in the discharge of their duties, but it was a case of putting a quart in a pint pot.
The sidewalks would not hold the vast multitude and many of the throng were turned into diverging streets, only to reappear, however, at other points on the route.
Hours before the starting of the state procession roofs, windows, balconies and stag-gings hired for the occasion were black with their tenants, who took up their positions early, fearing they would otherwise be unable to reach them. These fears were well founded, as the subsequent failure of many to reach advantageous places they had purchased the use of a week ago at enormous prices showed. Hundreds of mounted officers and soldiers galloped hither and thither through the streets issuing and executing orders. As the time approached for the pageant to move the eagerness of the multitude to witness the show and especially to behold the queen and the visiting royalties became so strong that for the moment fears of dynamite and dagger were forgotten.

The line of procession to Westminster abbey was kept by nearly ten thousand troops, representing all branches of the service, and in addition 600 boys from the naval training ship were drawn at the base of the Nelson monument. The police force was very large, and was under the command of Sir Charles Warren. The military force was under the command of Gen. Gipsy and Col. Stirling of the Cold Stream Guards.
The particular feature at Buckingham Palace was that two parts of the service were equally honored, the guards lining one side of the Buckingham Palace gates and on the other side the Blue Jackets. The same branches of the services were in a like manner at the entrance to Westminster abbey.

The first part of the royal procession started shortly after 10 o'clock, and was composed of the Indian princes and minor German princes. They were enthusiastically cheered as they emerged from the palace gates, and the plaudits were taken up and carried along the crowds that lined the route until the royal party had disappeared within the spacious recesses of the abbey.
At 10:45 the second royal procession started.
In this procession were the kings of Denmark, Belgium, Saxony and Hellenese, the crown princes of Austria and Portugal, the queen of the Belgians, the crown princess of Austria, the grand duke of Mecklenburg and other royalties. The queen's cortege came last. The people outdid their previous efforts at the sight of her majesty. They almost went frantic and cheered her until the din was deafening. Again and again did they cheer. Above the enthusiastic outbursts fervent shouts of "God Save the Queen" could be heard. She received one continuous ovation from the palace gates until she disappeared within the abbey.

The queen appeared in an open carriage drawn by eight cream colored ponies. Her sons, son-in-law and grandsons riding in full uniform, surrounding the royal equipage as a body guard. The queen did not wear her state robes, but wore the Order and Ribbon of the Garter. The carriage was a large chocolate colored one, with red wheels and the royal arms in gold emblazoned upon the panels. Red morocco harness was used for the horses. The latter were also decorated with royal blue ribbons. All the servants wore state liveries of scarlet and gold. The queen wore plain black and seemed greatly pleased at the demonstrations of loyalty.

Her face wore an almost continuous smile and she bowed incessantly. The Princess of Wales, who sat beside the queen, was also enthusiastically cheered. Other carriages containing members of the royal family were of a gorgeous character. Each had four horses of a bay color attached, and all the vehicles were open. The procession proceeded at a smart walking pace.

Owing to the late spring the beautiful green of the avenue trees, the sweet odors of the hawthorns and the splendid uniforms of the military, coupled with the enthusiasm of the crowd made the occasion one of refreshing enchantment. The procession slowly made its way until the Wellington arch was reached, and then the first introduction to the London streets ensued.
Emerging from the Wellington arch the first to greet the queen were the convalescent patients and others at the St. Georges hospital, which was packed from basement to roof, seats having been erected for many thousands over the roof of the hospital.

The procession, as viewed from the Duke of York's column, passing down the hill from the circle to Pall Mall east, was a remarkable sight, and the shouts of the mob were loudly heard from the top of the column as one vast roar. Many American ladies and gentlemen had secured seats in the palatial establishment of Howell & Samals, in Waterloo place, and joined in the enthusiasm as keenly as the Britishers. Passing around Pall Mall east a large gallery was erected over the colonnade of Her Majesty's theater, whilst 1,500 chairs, at from three to five guineas each, were all filled at Waterloo House, in Cockspur street.

Trafalgar Square was now reached, and everywhere one looked nothing but heads were to be viewed. The crowd was tremendous, and completely eclipsed any that has assembled at political gatherings of recent years. The steps and lions of Nelson Column were packed with people, while the roofs and steps of St. Martin's church and the steps of the National gallery were fairly black.

On the procession nearing the abbey the troops saluted, guns fired, the bells of the churches rung out merry peals and flags were run up, the cheering being continued until the queen had passed into the west door. After passing through the vestibule her majesty was conducted to the grand dias under the lantern tower. Inside the scene was brilliant. The lords and ladies had arrived early, and many of them confessed that they had not breakfasted, and exchanged sandwiches. Flasks filled with sherry wine constantly being passed around, and up to the time of the appearance of the first of the royalty there was a continuous and irrefragable hum. On the entrance of the queen the scene was absolutely dazzling.
The ladies discarding their wraps displayed their jewels, which flashed and reflected as they reflected the rays of the sunbeams that found their way through the transepts.

When the queen reached the dais she looked very pale and somewhat fatigued, but she soon recovered and wore a bright and composed countenance throughout the service. She was surrounded by thirty-two members of the royal family. In the abbey three tiers of galleries with seats were erected, seating about ten thousand persons.
The peers and their wives were seated in the south transept, the ambassadors and diplomatic corps being seated right and left of the peers. Members of the house of commons were seated in the north transept, while the seats for members of the reigning families of Europe were within the communion rails. All the great learned societies and corporations were represented, while the notables of the law, science, art and agriculture and workmen's representatives from all parts of the United Kingdom had seats duly allotted to them.

When the services, which were conducted according to program, were completed the queen's sons knelt and kissed her hand, then on their arising she kissed their cheeks in return. The princesses were the next to go through the obsequious exercise. The queen kissed some of them twice, especially was this noticed in the cases of the Princess of Wales and Princess Beatrice. This was followed by a general handshaking among the royalty and nobility. The queen bestowed two smacks upon the lips of Crown Prince Frederick William. The princesses all wore light dresses. One of the features of the services was the performance of the choir and organ which was very fine, the effect of the music enchanting and at times thrilling the hearers. During the performance of "Athalie" the queen took her departure, returning to Buckingham palace by the same route as she took just half a century ago.

At the conclusion of the services the royal cortege returned to Buckingham palace.
The throngs awaited the return of the cortege and repeated the enthusiastic demonstrations which greeted them on their way to the abbey. The queen on her return at the palace seemed fairly overcome by the loyalty displayed by her subjects.

As the day wore on the breeze died out and the afternoon was hot and stifling and there were several cases of sunstroke and a number of persons were crushed and injured in the throng, among them several of the police. With these exceptions, however, everything passed off without a hitch.

Three Hundred Lives Lost.

VIENNA, June 22.—The accident at Faks, in Hungary, is worse than first reported.
The ferryboat was upset through the drunken carelessness of the boatman. There were over four hundred persons on board.
Scarcely one hundred were saved. Over two hundred bodies have been recovered.

Firecrackers Scared England.

QUEENSTOWN, June 22.—Peter Troy, the terrible dynamiter, has been released. The mysterious box contained nothing but firecrackers.

SPORTING WHIPS.

Philadelphia base ball club has released E.
M. Daily to the Washingtons.

Jennings, the base ball umpire, came near being mobbed at Baltimore yesterday for alleged rank decisions.

Mrs. Christina and Ella Noonan, of Sussex, England, indulged in a prize fight, and the latter died from her injuries.

Jake Kilrain and Charley Mitchell will spar at Shelbyville, Ind., July 4, and local sporting denizens are throat much elated.

Jake Kilrain has challenged Jen Smith, champion heavy-weight of England, for a fight for $5,000 and the Police Gazette diamond belt.

General Buckner's Figures.

General Buckner's speech, delivered at the big Democratic barbecue in Lexington the other day, has given the junior editor of the Daily Republican a chance to "figger" to his heart's content. This is the sort of work the junior editor delights in, even if he isn't always correct in his calculations. However, he ruined his reliability as a calculator when he made a mistake of about $800,000 not long ago, in attempting to give four or five items of figures.

Gen. Buckner's speech is pronounced by one of the ablest and most candid critics in Kentucky the finest document of that character that has ever been delivered in the State. It is full of such facts and such sound reasoning as carry conviction with it. We publish the following that our readers may know what he had to say on State finances:

It was not until the latter part of 1867 that the Democratic party came fully into power, and it was not until then that it could be held responsible for the administration of the State Government. But assuming Colonel Bradley's statement to be correct, his arithmetic is singularly faulty. In order to exaggerate the resources of the sinking fund, he resorts to the Procrustean method of stretching out the value of the river and turnpike improvements until they amount in his estimation to the cash value of $4,830,474.99. What was their value to the State in the year which he selects for determining this value? The Auditor's report, which he calls upon as his witness, states that they were of "uncertain value." But a just way of reckoning values of stocks designed as a reliance for an income, and especially for a sinking fund, is to reckon them as worth a sum which, at legal rate of interest (6 per cent), would produce the income derived from them. What was the income of these improvements for the year in question? The Auditor's report shows that the total income from all these improvements for the year 1865 was $55,871.13, while the total cost of the river improvements was $65,305.53, showing that they cost the State for repairs $9,434.50 more than the income derived from all the improvements, which were, consequently, for all the purposes for which they were designed, just that much worse than nothing. They could not, therefore, be considered as a valuable asset in the sinking fund, but should be reckoned at nothing instead of being estimated as worth $4,830,474.99 cash. Mr. Bradley also estimates as assets of the sinking fund $800,000, which the Government had taken from the fund and expended, and $9,000 which the State had promised to pay to itself as interest on money taken from the sinking fund, in all $809,000. We must, therefore, deduct from the magnificent sum of $7,638,498.80, which he claims was turned over to the Democratic Government, not only the $809,000, but also the unavailable stock of $4,830,475, leaving as available assets in the sinking fund the sum of only $2,498,018.83. If, therefore, the State debt bequeathed to the Democratic party amounted, as Mr. Bradley states, to $5,251,946, instead of turning over to the Democratic Government a surplus, as he claims, of $4,347,516, there was left an actual deficit, after exhausting the available assets of the sinking fund of $2,753,927.20, making a difference between arithmetic fact and Republican fancy of $7,102,833.20.

But without holding Mr. Bradley strictly to a calculation of the data of 1865, to which he appeals, I will give him the benefit of the average of that and the two years preceding, which were the most favorable years he could possibly have selected, for all these improvements received during those years, from the Federal Government, which then used them extensively, an unusual amount for tolls. The average net income of these improvements during those years, in consequence of this fact, did not differ materially from the present net receipts, and it would be equitable, therefore, to assign to them a value at which they are now held in the sinking fund, which is $500,000.

But his Procrustean system of arithmetic can lop off values when it suits his purpose as readily as it can stretch them out. We have just seen, when he desired to impute a large surplus to the Democratic party in order to charge them with squandering it, that he has stretched out an actual value of $500,000 to a cash value of $4,830,474.99. In one minute afterward, when he wishes to show a small value at the present time of the sinking fund, he declares that substantially the same property, which he had just estimated at $4,830,474.99, is overestimated by the Auditor when he valued it at only $500,000. My competitor has undoubtedly "scaled the heights of prejudice," and stands perched upon the highest pinnacle, but he evidently has not entered upon "the field of fair and open discussion." In his statements he is not just to himself; he does not seem frank with the people, and places a low estimate upon their intelligence when he supposes they can not detect his transparent unconsistencies.

The facts of the case are plain and simple, and need not to be stated to be fully understood. The educational bond represents a deposit derived from the sales of public lands and made by the United States with the State of Kentucky in 1837. By the Constitution of 1850, 6 per cent. interest on this sum was made an annual charge upon the State, and devoted to the support of common schools. As this principal sum, which is irredeemable, is in no proper sense a debt, but only the interest on that sum, it should not be regarded as such. Leaving it out of consideration, therefore, the Auditor's report will show that in 1865 the bonded indebtedness of the State amounted to $3,052,402. To meet this indebtedness, the State had an available sinking fund, exclusive of her internal improvement system, amounting to $2,498,018.84. Adding $500,000 for the value of these improvements, and the total available assets were $2,998,018.84.

It follows from this statement that the boasted surplus had vanished, and that an actual deficit was bequeathed to the Democratic State Government by its predecessors, amounting to $653,383.66. Such was the actual condition of affairs in 1865, when it is charged that the Democratic party came into power. What is the condition of the State Treasury to-day? The bonded debt, including $8,384, supposed to have been lost by the holders of the bonds, amounts to $890,391. To meet this indebtedness the State had a sinking fund when last reported composed of the following assets: $180,896.21 in cash, $30,450 in stock of the Bank of Louisville, and, deducting stocks which had been parted with, the remaining stocks in turnpikes, and in Green and Barren and Licking river improvements, estimated by the Auditor to be worth $500,000, or a total value in the sinking fund of $711,347.21. This internal improvement stock, which, under our predecessors, not only yielded nothing to the State, but was an actual expense to it during the year to which Mr. Bradley appeals, has been made under Democratic management to yield, in 1886, a net revenue of $34,639.35, or 6 per cent. on $577,322.16. Yet Mr. Bradley insists that in Democratic hands a stock which yields this handsome income is not worth $500,000, while substantially the stock, in estimating it as a Republican asset, is worth $3,675,542.29 cash, when it yields no income at all. This is according to his Procrustean system of accounting.

At Chicago the other day 200 Poles quit work because a negro was given employment along side of them. What a fortunate thing for the South, that this all happened at Chicago.

The Republicans of Jessamine County have nominated J. A. Sparks, a farmer, for Representative in the Legislature. The Prohibitionists, of same county, have nominated James Martin White.

A DISPATCH from Flemingsburg says Craig Tolliver has notified Dr. J. A. Huff, Republican-Prohibition nominee for State Senator from that district, that he must not enter Rowan County. Tolliver accused Huff of writing dispatches to the newspapers relative to Rowan affairs. We don't know that Tolliver has given any such warning, but if he has, Huff will very likely obey the injunction.

Dr. STEVENSON, Prohibition candidate for Superintendent of Public Schools, is confined to his home at Augusta by a badly sprained ankle. A special says the accident was caused by a drunken man falling upon it while he was traveling from Paris to Maysville, over the Kentucky Central Railroad. He is compelled to use crutches, and it may be he will not be able to do very much in the way of speech-making for his party during the present campaign.

JOHN P. NEWMAN, of Campbell County, has declined the nomination for Attorney General, recently tendered him by the Union Labor party. He says:

I am a Democrat, and from that party have received position and trust, and am faithful to it. We may often as private citizens, or in the halls of legislation, have thought that our party did not come up to the full measure of our hopes or wishes, yet these failures are often more faulted than real. For I do firmly believe that substantial progress has been made in the past, and that in the near future a full fruition will be realized by all who desire to see a liberal, progressive and Democratic State Government.

That the Democratic party has and will always recognize all just demands of labor, as from the ranks of labor comes the Democracy itself, and that it will regulate and adjust the convict question in accordance with sound labor and economic principles and according to the dictates of humanity.

"With this belief and for these reasons I must decline to be your candidate."

A Philadelphia Saloon-Keeper Has a Draft.

A saloon-keeper named Terrence J. Lynch, at southeast corner of Eleventh and Locust streets, some weeks ago was asked to take a ticket in the May drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and was knocked back by the information that ticket No. 15,768, of which he held one-tenth, had drawn the capital prize of $150,000. His draft for the money was placed in the hands of the Third National Bank of Philadelphia, and was promptly paid. This is the third capital prize of $150,000, fractions of which have been paid within the past three months in Philadelphia.—Philadelphia Telegraph, May 23rd.

Bace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are fidgety, nervous and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alternative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at the drug stores of J. C. Pecor & Co., and S. P. Campbell & Co., of Aberdeen Ohio.

Louisville has marketed 60,862 hogsheads of tobacco since the first of January. The market for burley has been higher the past week than at any time during the year.

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, Chief of Police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity."

Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, Asthma, croup and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free (Large size $1.00) at the Drug Stores of J. C. Pecor & Co., and S. P. Campbell & Co., of Aberdeen Ohio.

Personal.

Bert L. Pearce has returned from a trip to Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dobyns spent Sunday with relatives near Elizaville.

Miss Lila Semply, of Covington, is expected soon to visit Miss Mattie Evans.

Mrs. Hannah Forman, of Mayslick, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Myall.

Mrs. Madison J. Lyons, of Covington, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Wood.

Miss Bessie White left yesterday to spend the summer with her sister in Bourbon County.

Mrs. Clemmie Senteney, of the Fifth ward, has gone to join her husband, who is traveling through Ohio.

Eugene Collins returned this week from some point in Iowa, where he has been attending school the past season.

Stock and Crops.

The crop of bluegrass seed fell short about half this season, in Bourbon County.

Tom Moran gathered 8,000 bushels of bluegrass seed with nine strippers, on R. B. Hatcher's place near Hutchison, oBourbon County.

The Flemingsburg Times says that tobacco in Fleming is about all set out, and that the crop will hardly be a third as great this year as last.

Over-Worked Women.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent specific for all those chronic weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nerve, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.

A large treatise on Diseases of Women, profusely illustrated with colored plates and numerous wood cuts, sent for 10 cents in stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

TOBACCO MARKET.

Furnished by Glover & Durrett, proprietors Louisville Tobacco Warehouse. Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to $348,114. With receipts for the same period of 4,400 hds. Sales on our market since January 1 amount to 60,862 hds. The market for burley tobacco has been higher this week than at any time during the year, frequent sales of good leaf were made at from $15 to $16 per 100 pounds. All grades have sympathized with the advance. The market is filled with outside speculators who are taking the most of the offerings. We find it necessary to advance quotations.

Barkley's Misfortune.

"A strange fatality," says the Cincinnati Enquirer, "appears to follow every transaction of John L. Barkley, of Clermont County, Ohio, brother of Captain George Barkley, of Aberdeen. Barkley will be remembered as the unfortunate Treasurer of Monroe Township, who was so badly beaten up and robbed in Cincinnati several months ago. Two months ago his home farm, one of the prettiest country places imaginable, was sold to Peter O. Lemley. He secured the place for less than $7,000, or rather would have done so had he made the first payment. Failing in this, the place was resold on Thursday. George Brown, of Cincinnati, bought the first tract of one hundred acres at $5,000, and the second of fifty-one acres at $1,377; N. H. Dixon the third tract of fifty-five acres at $1,650, or $8,027 in all."

A SPECIAL from Lexington to the Louisville Commercial says: "Startling disclosures are being made at Frankfort in the matter of 'equalizing' done in the warehouses of the 'O. F. C.' and 'Carliele' distilleries. Already about 150 to 100 barrels of whisky have been found nearly empty. It is believed, however, that the proprietor knew nothing of what was going on, and the Government will not confiscate the whisky of the firm."

ONE of Beauregard's old soldiers sent him a dollar, and requested him to send a lottery ticket which would win a big prize. He added: I was always at my post and never disobeyed orders. I came out of the war without clothes enough to wad a shot gun. The General answered: "My dear old comrade, I send you a ticket that I hope will draw a prize, and beg leave to give you the following advice: If you will stick to the Louisiana Lottery for four years as faithfully as you did to the Southern Confederacy, you will not have clothes enough to wad a pop gun."
